REGION

Veneto

The Veneto is an extremely important region in the north-east of Italy, stretching from the west at the shores of Lake Garda as far north as the Alps, the Austrian border and the Venetian hinterland. It is Italy's largest wine-producing region. DOC wines represent well over a quarter of total produc... Read More

GRAPE

Corvina

Corvina is the most important varietal in the Valpolicella appellation, with its famous sour-cherry character, as well as good body and structure. Thick skins means it can be air-dried in the traditional appassimento style, making it suitable for use in the prestigious Amarone della Valpolicella wine... Read More

TASTING NOTES

Deep, dark and savory. Clove and cinnamon, balsamic spice, chocolate and blackberries all blossom on the nose and palate. Racy, yet silky tannins, burst though on the palate with ultra ripe red and black berries.
