REGION

Veneto

The Veneto is an extremely important region in the north-east of Italy, stretching from the west at the shores of Lake Garda as far north as the Alps, the Austrian border and the Venetian hinterland. It is Italy's largest wine-producing region. DOC wines represent well over a quarter of total produc... Read More

GRAPE

Glera (Prosecco)

Glera is the name by which the grape Prosecco is now officially known. This changed in 2009 when Prosecco di Conegliano-Valdobbiadene was promoted to full DOCG status (the highest level of Italian wine quality). It has grown for hundreds of years in Veneto and Friuli regions in Italy. A white grape v... Read More

TASTING NOTES

Prosecco Spumante Adalina Extra Dry Non Vintage. Dry but still vibrant and fresh, this Prosecco offers enticing aromas of ripe orchard apple and pear with hints of zesty lemon. Straw yellow in color, the palate delivers a luscious sweet peach with more apple to follow, balanced with crisp acidity and a clean finish.

Food Matches

Soft Ricotta Crostini with Fig, California Sushi Rolls & Vegetable Fritters with Lemon & Herb Dip
