TASTING NOTES

Portelisa Primitivo 2024. This wine opens with a deeply expressive nose of ripe black cherries, plums, and dried figs layered with sweet spice and a faint hint of cocoa. On the palate, the wine offers a generous core of dark berries and stone fruit. The tannins are well-integrated and lifted by fresh acidity. Hints of vanilla and lightly toasted oak unfold, adding variety to the wine's finish. This vintage reflects an elegant balanced growing season.

REGION

Puglia

Puglia is easily identified on a map as the 'heel' to Italy's 'boot', in the far south-east of the country, along the Adriatic coast. It has long been a region of significant viticultural importance, and its mediterranean climate and prominence of calcareous soils have created an ideal environment f... Read More
